Interview with Jacqueline Uhlmann

Translated transcript from Swiss-German, 6.10.2023, Löwenbräuareal

Jaqueline Uhlmann, Head of Communications Löwenbräukunst Julian Merlo, Interviewer Ladina Naegeli, Interviewer

- J: May I ask, were you once in the Löwenbräu Area, before 1996?
- U: Hey, during my studies, yes, really. During my Studies in 97, 98, 99, 2000 I was working here as a student. I can really remember the blue room and the parties, also the building. But then I left, went abroad.
- J: But you were at the Presenhuber Gallery?
- U: Yes, exactly.
- J: This is just good for the follow-up question, because I wanted to ask if you really know why the Eva Presenhuber Gallery has left the Löwenbräu area? Do you have any information on this?
- U: I think when she was gone, so certainly on the one hand after the conversion, there was the big conversion 2010, 2012. And then she was still in it, but afterwards, I say now the reputation of the Löwenbräu was a bit, one that has not been so happy. It no longer had the charm of before. And because of that, she had great rooms but of course, I think the Maag area offered itself to her and that's why she actually went there at that time.
- J: After the stay in Albisrieden?
- U: Exactly.
- J: So also because of the more attractive, different and alternative offer.
- U: Exactly.
- J: Perhaps it was also due to the fact that the Löwenbräu was simply no longer as attractive.
- U: Exactly, it has then as well somehow, everyone was a bit critical of it and thus it has become a bit difficult and it was of course also, when we have rebuilt, the phase of planning, as I know it, was in 2006 where they realized, that this area must be preserved and reused. And at that time the idea was actually to sell the premises here. And then it was initiated a little bit. Then came 2008, which may have been a time before you, but then there was the financial crisis, with Lehman Brothers and then suddenly everyone was like: hey sorry, we have no cash. We can't buy and so in a panic they had to found an AG and look where they get money from and then the players came in who own the area today, meaning the art area.
- J: You mean the LK AG?
- U: Exactly and I think that is also a bit, somehow you have in principle rooms to buy or rent and I don't even know if in the Maag area, I think even these premises belong to Eva Presenhuber which she has there. So it was then probably like a weighing. And there, of course, she was able to use more space than here.
- J: A bit of a different topic, I saw that you were also in New York and the surrounding area. I wanted to ask if you have found institutions there that are comparable to the Löwenbräuareal, especially with regard to the special combination of museums and galleries? If you have found comparable institutions?
- U: Yes, so of course that's something that, just when I started here, I was actually looking for that a bit. In America itself at that time, okay there is the PS1, but there are not really galleries in the sense. I know there is a place 45 in San Francisco now, I think it's called Minnesota Art Center. But then I searched a lot in Europe and I didn't find anything comparable directly. What there is, however, is the Kunstareal Munich. But that is of course an area which has individual houses on it so not in one context. I was then also in England and what there is, is the South Bank. That's south of the Thames. They are actually in one complex. They have dance, theater, Hayward Galery, which is something like ours, which also has a dense agenda. Then there's the MQ Vienna, but that's also an area. So something like the Löwenbräu, such a repurposing as well, I found almost nowhere. I had a contact, and this is actually quite tragic, with the Jam Art Center and they are from Kiev. They came to visit me in September, half a year before the war started, and because they were also interested in our old factory. They wanted to use it and said we will open in the summer in one year, so next summer, and they said come by and I said yes, good and then the war started. But I see they are quite active, so there is this Jam Art Center and they also came here to see how do you do that, and the repurposing.

- J: And that might have had potential like this?
- U: Exactly, so conversion of a, I say now, old factory. There is certainly that, but I mean there are now also several stages. And now we are entering the next stage again.
- J: Again, a bit of a topic jump. Regarding accessibility, do you see clear improvements, now with the reconstruction which was finished in 2012, do you see improvements regarding accessibility?
- U: That is just a bit of a sore point of this house. We have three entrances and three exits. So there's already the problem of where our main entrance is. Okay, we have now created a bit of a foyer, but when we have an event and I count the people. I have no idea where they all come in. Theoretically we have 4, we still have the barrierfree entrance under the stairs, so sometimes I don't know where the people come in and out and it's just really difficult, we have the 270 and 268 and they are on different levels. That means we have an A, B, C and a
- -1, 2, 3 because the floors don't come together and that makes it a bit difficult sometimes. Purely from the signaling, to say yes in the A, what in the A? I am now in the 1, yes, so do you want to go down with the stairs or do you want to go up with the elevator and then in the back. So, it's really mega hard and of course I have to listen to something every 3 weeks. I try again and again, with different things, digital, maps, describe and yeah.
- J: Also on the website with the axonometry, that is already very well made understandable.
- U: Yes, but of course it is, it has a certain complexity. It doesn't bother me somehow, I think you can just float through and let yourself be surprised a bit, but yes. Everyone actually wants to be like written on, seven times on each corner and that's just because we have had many tenants and sometimes have had a lot of tenant changes. So I said I would like to get away from the analogue a bit, because these are simply costs that someone has to bear every time and so when the new tenant comes, he has to bear that. But now we are much less tenants in the future, because the house Konstruktiv is moving in, with a lot of space requirements and that means that we will probably be from 15 tenants after about 6-7 and now we are actually creating a new project order, where we say okey we look at the appearance, the signaling again.
- J: Exactly in relation to this signaling, we also noticed that the entrance, or the main entrance is relatively discreet and restrained and actually not really so strongly staged. Also with the artwork by Jenny Holzer, with the lettering Löwenbräu, which is more like a work of art than a branding for the Löwenbräu. Whether this is done intentionally, whether this has some ulterior motive, or whether this is simply a bit indebted to the industrial building?
- U: Yes, well, the facade is under monument protection. So somehow, by the skin of our teeth, we were able to do something there. I have to say it like this, I took over this job and I had to take it over as it is now. So with a restaurant, with signaling, so I then already implemented it with a signaling office, but the CI has already been there. Including the exterior signage and I think now we are in a phase where we are looking at it again, because it is, I say now graphically very great, but of course it does not work that way and the problem with the entrance, I think we have to do that now. So I mean everybody knows the Löwenbräu, but everybody says: ah I've already walked past there or driven past there with the streetcar and that's true. You drive by and think ah interesting and you're already further. And I think we have to do that now, so of course you have to remember that light emissions are a big issue. So we also have the Jenny Holzer, it's really by the skin of its teeth. We have to shut it down, because certain people... yes. Exactly, that's why they live in the city or, so that's now also a bit of an issue. Now there on this side has gone well, there's more offices over there but yeah. That's still an issue but yes. Graphically I find it very nicely implemented but now purely from the, I say now times, re-46 sponsiveness of the people, I see it sometimes not at all.

- J: Okay, thank you.
- L: You mentioned before that Haus Konstruktiv is moving in. What exactly is happening now, who has to leave and what changes do you expect from this change?
- U: Exactly, so all the rooms here are rented out, you have rental agreements and it's all been a bit of a blessing in disguise, in the sense that we have this part of 68, which is really old. It simply has to be renovated for the guidelines in the meantime. That has also been climatically quite difficult over there. One has really noticed these rooms, that is not right with the air quality. And there are contracts that expired 2, 3 years ago, so Darius that were once in it and the contracts have been renewed again 2, 3 years, but we have known how, we have to renovate. We also knew that if we renovate and then we have to think ahead and we do the same processes with the spatial renovation, we now do all PV plants. So that we now really step on the gas, to now at all times the whole cycle, the cooling, energy, that one really tackles and also uses and can really also implement the energy. Summer winter, even now to the other houses next door, because it is simply great and of course 10 years ago that would not have been possible. PV systems on Denkmalgeschütztem, but now everyone must. So we have already fought quite hard against restrictions. Now, for example, on the facade out there, at the barrel thing, there must now also be covers. So the monument protection says okay, if you really want to save electricity, the circuit, then you have to do certain things. Yes, and then of course they knew that Haus Konstruktiv had to go. We have space, but not as much as they want and they were looking for a place in the city. They wanted to be in a place with a cultural affinity and not somewhere. I'll say Altstetten, Schwamendingen, they wanted to be here. Yes, but because of that, certain tenants have not had their contracts renewed. That means four are now leaving and two are now using how, so the house Konstruktiv is moving in in two stages. So there is a bit of interim use and yes then the question is how to continue if more galleries / people want to stay here. Institutions is the question, do we still have rooms. Of course we have office space. But yes, it always has to open naturally. The owners of those say of course, do I want someone who signs a contract for 2 years or someone who signs for 10 years and it's already not so easy. Migros moved in because no one else had it.
- J: Briefly to that, do they know now already whether the house will cost Konstruktiv so museum, or will the entrance be free?
- U: Hmm, sore point. We would like to be the first art center that has free admission, of course. Migros already does that, of course, but Migros is not a public museum. I think the problem lies more in the fact that subsidized institutions, and that is the Kunsthalle, as well as Haus Konstruktiv. Subsidized institutions, as far as I know, are not allowed free admission according to the law. I think you get money and free admission, that doesn't quite add up. So I think there are already dialogues, also from us in the house, where we say we would like that, so Migros is very, we say now a bit provocative and yes. It would be nice, but I don't quite see that yet. (see under "Money Flows Kunsthalle")
- L: Yes, it is quite astonishing, because according to our research, the Kunsthaus, that is, the Kunsthalle, makes only about 0.2 percent of its revenue from the entrance fee. So it's not really necessary for the turnover. but in this case it's legal, or you would have to read up on it.
- U: I heard that once, you would have to look again, so I just think also, and of course it's a push movement or. So I mean, when we say we are all free entry here. I mean it already has an effect on visitor numbers, you have to say that, that already causes more people to come. And of course if we are and the others are not and there is then also the museum line that should come in the longer term, or actually soon. In the end, it is also a communicative story. I would find it nice, because we also have galleries and galleries are free of admission.
- L: How does that work, with the different institutions, how they are coordinated, so are they all independent, or are there hierarchies or dependencies. I mean there are institutions that are part of the AG and those that are not, what is the relationship?
- U: Yes, I think it is really like that that we are actually the "holding company", the umbrella brand, but all institutions in the house are really autonomous, independent, and equal. So in these 5 years we have done it a bit like this, we have different working groups: so one working group is for events, communication, green deal. so sustainability, diversity, barrier free access, where we meet regularly and discuss and when we do something together, we usually have a cost key, so from the size, who can pay how much of his contribution, but basically 47 everyone is equal, it is not somehow, someone who has more to say or not, everyone is equally signed up, everyone is very independent. The CI is, we have just recently decided again, that is really something against the outside, but we want now against the inside, when we rethink this again, just give more individuality to the individual institutions.

L: And, in that case when they say it is also independent, is the maintenance, so for example, the cleaning and in case of susceptible damage, is that in the case also organized by the individual institutions, or is there something?

U: We have the facility management, that runs through Immoklas, that is our real estate support, they also do the shipbuilding, they are a bit sensitized for such things, with the exception of Migros, they have their own facility management. Yes, at the beginning the wish was that we do everything ourselves, but now the wish is again, can we not put everything together again, I also think it's good, because we are also building up a sustainable facility management, we look at how we clean, how we do the events, or how we want to appear, what was our mission statement. That's why I think it's actually good that it's all concentrated again, rather than everyone working on their own. So just, I do not prescribe anything, but in the public space, we have already longer everything LED and, yes the individual institutions try it close dis close. It is unfortunately not so cheap, you can not just quickly a new lamp, you have to change the whole thing if you want that, that also costs, but there are such things that we are now trying to tackle. Or we have the classic example now, our restroom, the request came up 2 years ago; why don't we have gender neutral restrooms? and then that comes to me, and then it's discussed. I send that to everybody, I ask for feedback, what is. At that time, everyone said, yes we do that and now 2 years later, is written 50 percent gender-neutral and 50 percent with the classic.

L: Yes, I wanted to talk to You about that too.

U: Yes, there are these dialogues, I find yes, it is natural, just in the beginning you want to be so progres-sive and then you realize what that means. And if you would build something now, so you can think about whether you make 3 toilets, but I understand the problem, for example in the two 68, you came and there were the toilet doors behind each other, it had first the former ladies and men. And of course if it is gender neutral everyone goes in the first one, or in the second one you came in and it just had a urinal. So of course it's never been constructed that you say you come and you can choose gender or gender urinal, so purely from the architecture it's been a bit clumsy. But we'll leave it that way now, because I think these are processes that you have to try out.

L: And, how do you see then, you have already talked a.. A little bit about the role in the city, but how do you see the Löwenbräu area situated compared to the rest of the art scene in Zurich? There are also many smaller galleries around, but some of them have now moved away again, due to the gentrification in the whole of Zurich West.

U: Exactly, that's really a lot of discussion, again and again. The whole Zurich West, so it is also interesting, because I was at an event, so more political and then I really noticed; my God I'm really at the beginning of Zurich West and where I studied at that time, that was the end of Zurich West, so afterwards is then more so oke then new houses and now, I thought, Oh my God the Zurich West, that goes mega, so that's mega far back, so we are almost actually already with the city city or. But we are very much looking for dialogue in the neighborhood, despite everything, in order to situate it. Of course, it has already changed a lot. There used to be a lot of galleries there, but now they've all moved to Rämistrasse, which has changed a bit, so I think that's okay if you've lived in New York, there's also Chelsea, there's West Village, so why not. What I'm trying to do is to keep the dialogue with Zurich 1. So tonight we have an opening, but afterwards the afterparty is in the Kunsthaus, in the Klubhaus, there is the temporary use, you say oke there, you still work together, and of course we become a bit more, I'll say institutional place, which I find a bit of a pity, because I find the hybrid actually still cool with off-space publishers. But now we are becoming institutional, but I have also learned that it is always changing very strongly. We are now trying to integrate more with the Maag Areal, i.e. with Kilchman and Presenhuber, so that we say okay, how do we use it, what off-spaces are there, how does the neighborhood perceive it, the Tanzhaus is still close by. That we nevertheless seek a bit of a dialogue regarding other topics, ecological sustainability or the whole common exchange. We find the people the access to contemporary topics.

L: Is that then also within the Löwenbräu site, there is still the clinic and the office and the residential building. Is there also some kind of exchange, or is that completely separate now?

U: Unfortunately yes. So clearly at a summer party or bigger occasions, then we also do neighborhood letters and invite. Or for example this summer we had a couple of rooftop concerts. But just it's amazing, we are here in the city, it's urban, but they are still very light and noise sensitive. If there's a light on for two days, you'll get a call. I thought to myself, if they sleep, whether they have no Storren. It is just very much in the city, but I also think it is a great opportunity that it is in the city. Zurich is really just transforming insanely, but I think we just have a good location and this I would like to just use and expand. Sometimes I think also with the Schützenareal, I hope maybe also that more people come on Sunday, but the gastronomy is still very difficult. Because you drive by, but there are no stores like back then, where you walk along and think; ah there is still a Beizli or so, but let's see what it brings.

L: Do they have then, maybe just so with the visitor numbers, do they have there changes since the opening at the rebuild and now, are there more or less. Or maybe also simply how is it in the last 5 years?

U: I was a bit unlucky, I started in 2019. Then of course 2-3 years pandemic, from that. I think the numbers are increasing again, but I think we're already noticing that we've now had two or three times free admission, or exhibitions that are total visitor magnets and that always make the numbers a bit inaccurate. But basically we have more visitors, we also have a lot of school classes, of course the education program, we have our big days, the Open House in March, the Zurich Art Weekend, which is very international. So internationally this house works very well, because for the international audience it is of course great to have everything in one complex, and they appreciate that more. Then we have our summer festival, but I still have to think a bit about whether that is really still in the right place, because we are doing fewer exhibitions, also for sustainability reasons. That is, we used to have almost four exhibitions per year and now we are actually, so just with the big ones on 3. That means of course just like today, for was in the summer and now everything has shifted over the September to October. This has several reasons, so I also think you do not have to constantly make every 3 months a new exhibition and just it's just also more sustainable to show the things a little longer.

L: I read a bit in this magazine and there is an article about the cross-financing of galleries, I think it is Annex14 and Barbara Seiler, who started this once, but of course it was from 2013. It was also described there that there is a gallery sharing with the cross-financing of Löwenbräu AG. Does that still exist?

U: No, it's actually a very great model that they tried. So I think the Löwenbräu AG has never financed it, the idea was more that they have a room, and that theoretically the 5 galleries share, that is, that not always each gallery, must make one exhibition after the other. But we have 3 rooms, 5 galleries, but each has an office and there are always 3 rooms which can then be used. So then also no longer make so many exhibitions because that has then its costs. But so she started that in 2018 and came in 2019 and somehow she as well as not found the right partners and then the pandemic came. But I think the concept is actually very great, if you do not always have to use the rooms and thus also have to pay less over the year.

L: Yes, so I mean we have been there now for about 2 or 3 weeks and there was most of the closed and that's logical you have to build up and that the rooms are not actively used for the public.

U: Exactly, but clearly what we have done, if we have had rooms which we have not just used, then we had already had different room rents. So if someone was not profit oriented, then there have already been other rents.

L: So then the square meter was not always the same in the rent?

Kunsthall

Exhibiting

U: No, but just. Also because of the schools, so sometimes the ZHdK was here for a month, or for half a year. Or the AIA, their exhibition space, they were now also two years here and of course we knew, he is now also no longer optimal but yes, 2 years at very good conditions.

L: Ah that's very nice. Yes, also with regard to the ZHdK, which is very close and there are also many people who graduated from there who are still involved in this building today. Is that somehow a collaboration, so it also makes sense, from the art and the proximity, but is there also a collaboration between the two?

U: Yes, so basically many events are in collaboration with the ZHdK. They are also there a lot, we have already shown master's or bachelor's theses in free spaces. The mediation program, especially in the Migros, creates very strong, also the Kunsthalle again and again, that they are brought here. Many students also work in the set-up team, at the box office. But I would like to see, sometimes I thought, a bit more exchange, of course. We already have now and then also in the resource, so more in the sustainability area, of course, how they work there, what 49

they communicate, or even times an exhibition project, even with F+F we have already, there the link is already important to us.

L: That's nice, is there also that from the institutions themselves, so I think the openings are often a little coordinated, but are there also collaborations between different institutions, whether they do an exhibition together?

U: Yes, there has not been for a long time. We have, it's really, I can still remember it well because it was in February 2020. Gilbert and George, it was really huge, it has the Kunsthalle and Luma. And everybody was making the stupid jokes, like; eh you heard the Corona. It was end of February and just all so; eh haha I have a cold and can you hug. Then two and a half weeks later it's kind of, yeah. But there it is somehow, also the idea of course already that one tries to make also together exhibitions, but that is not so simple. Migros, of course, has a completely different, I'll say directive or direction. Luma is very much coordinated through Arl (?), because it doesn't have any, so it also runs very much through the program that is there, but partly here. Except for the Kunsthalle, I'd say they're pretty independent. Hauser & Wirth is of course a global enterprise. But you have to say we work quite well together and it's not easy, I mean Hauser & Wirth, they have their headquarters in London, Luma in Arl (?) and London and Migros is always very strong also of course with others. Yes, complex, that you always find each other. And Migros, I'll say this now, also has a lot of money. I mean there comes a percent of sales culture, not from the profit and that just comes every year.

And yes, so now architecturally, I find it mega exciting. I also find the Westbau quite great, which they have made here still ran. A bit of the idea is of course the boarding house, which I actually also find quite cool, where you can sleep and there are 3 rooms that it has there and they are like hotel rooms. So they have a shower, a bed and then it just has a communal kitchen, communal lounge, but you can also wash and so. I think that's actually really great, so sure, it would have been nice to have some studios there, but we don't have that many rooms.

L: Are they actually staffed relatively permanently and can all galleries make inquiries?

U: Exactly, so it is of course already, the priority has Luma, but they have now not so many artists who come and when artists build there, then they have relatively good conditions and the artists sometimes it is also fun just.

L: Yes of course is super ideal just there.

U: Exactly, you can just go over and do the setup and again in the evening, yes.

J: Do you have anything else?

L: So from me, that would have been it.

J: Yes. from me too.

L: Thank you very much.

J: Thank you very much.

U: Thank you.

J: It helped us a lot.

U: Yes, so what we are now looking for a bit, now also architecturally, or I, I would like a bit of the, just we have no fover and our interior spaces are very difficult to play because the fire police simply does not allow anything.

J: So in terms of security...?

U: Yes, exactly.

L: Is that also a reason for the double doors, which are everywhere. So partly it has like 2 layers of doors, are the outer ones for fire protection?

U: Certainly, and absolutely everything, there must be nothing left. I always think it would be really cool if we built museums or such complex places like here, we should have more community spaces, or, I was recently on a tour at ZHdK. A quiet place or, I'll say, yes, or even community spaces where you can be without having to look at art or consume something. And that's always a big topic for us, but we don't have it, unless we give up space that we already have, but there are always ideas floating around. Yes, we could somehow use the parking lot in the back.

J: It's interesting because I was recently at the vernissage of the Trans Magazine, which took place in the Kunsthallen basement. Many people gathered outside on the ramp, and this space was really activated. It was very interesting to see how these spaces were used so differently from what they were originally intended for.

U: When we have the summer festival, we actually shut down the entire parking lot, and then we set up benches and stalls there, and it's really cool. Many people from here on Gerstenstrasse or from Wipkingen pass through, and I think, wow, it's so... And there are also two studios in that residential block, and I sometimes think, I mean, the cars are parked here in the back. But then I think, if somehow it could be done architecturally, I mean, also in terms of climate, urban gardening, leisure, so it would be such a cool corner, you know. And I always think, it 50 itches me too. Even here, but it's always about structural issues, and it doesn't hold. Yeah, someone once said, Morris Mag is an older urbanist, and he said, we could plant some hop plants or something that provides a bit of shade. Because, you know, there's a brewery nearby and hop vines could be a nice addition. But then, hmm, no, it doesn't hold structurally, although I know that's probably not true, but yeah. I'm thinking about revitalizing the whole space and what kind of spaces to create, green spaces, of course. Maybe someday it can be part of an outreach program or an art project or something like that, that would be the next step for me. Inside, I can't do much more because I don't have any more spaces to work with.

The ramp, of course, but it only comes alive when there's access to the parking lots in the back. Somehow, then, it becomes a passageway where people come through and bring it to life. Otherwise, it's really difficult, you know, we've tried so many things, like with lighting and all. Of course, it's not ideal due to fire safety and emergency exits, but it's still possible.

J: But major interventions, especially at the ramp, wouldn't be possible because it's also used for deliveries, and...

U: Yes, of course, there was a construction site for two weeks, and I just feel that if nothing is done, maybe there could be something mobile or something down on the parking lot. It would be quite cool because there's the Kunsthof up front, so if you walk towards the front, which I still think is cool, and sometimes people sit there too, so how to create such places that provide an extra space for people to hang out. That's what I find interesting. Yes, my wishes, I always keep at it.

L: You know best.

U: Yes, a bit of, yeah, and a bit of the possibilities. I hope with the renovation, maybe more art will be brought here, and like a bit, but of course, I always have to fight a bit with the preservation of historical buildings. Just recently with this facade again, we have many windows that are still the same as back then, and you can't change them, and there are old columns downstairs that have been placed there somewhere in a room because they can't be removed.

J: That's quite limiting in a way.

U: Yes, it is quite a lot, so where was I recently, yes, I was surprised at the Toni Areal, how much they have left, and also how little they had to preserve. So, we already have, yes, of course, it's brilliant in its own way, so I don't want to get rid of it, but yes.

J: You can definitely sense much more of the historical connection than at the Toni Areal.

U: Mhm, it does make it challenging, especially in terms of climate. But yes, now we're trying it, I'm curious about the PV system, it's going to be quite large, extending down here. Yes, it's a bit of our step into a green future.

I have also commissioned some materials about interim use before the renovation, but I must say, yes, I have asked around, there are old posters from the early days, and sometimes people don't have them anymore. Back then, we used to have Ektachrome and slides, and archiving, well, they say they no longer have them and have thrown them away. It's a pity because I wanted to keep those posters, and nobody here had really archived all of that.

J: It also lived a bit on this ephemerality and the fact that it was temporary and that it had to stop at some point, and that's the attractive aspect of interim use.

U: Fischli Weiss once had an installation, but somehow, I was looking for it, and I did find some photos somewhere, but it's very difficult; it's like it wasn't documented enough. So, everyone thought, yes, yes, this is temporary and all that. And I have an assistant now and then, but it's already so much for me alone, and right now, I have Climate Zurich, Culture, so I'm constantly in various workshops, and of course, I want to have a say, but sometimes I really don't have the time. When you want to be somewhat politically involved and I believe we are a center that should participate in societal dialogue. So now, with the exhibition on Care and Resilience, these are current topics, and of course, the Kunsthaus, they have other issues they need to address, but I do think we should keep a bit of that dialogue going, with our tool, art. They say, ,Yes, you are the visionaries, but unfortunately, we are not always, but yes, I try to bring it back into the dialogue a bit. Because it's actually a cool place, right in the middle of the city, and the interaction between different art 51 players is great, and you get to see cool high-end art for free, actually. I'm starting to go more often now, I'm going to Dresden as well; we have a meeting, there's a group now that meets from Germany, Austria, and Switzerland, all related to art districts. Plateforme 10 is part of it; you probably already know about it; it's in Lausanne, and it's the latest project.

- J: Ah yes, so that's the one with the collaboration between these three museums?
- U: Exactly, they're involved, then there's the Museumsquartier Bern, but that's more of a district, apparently there's something happening in Cologne as well, and Kunstmeile Hamburg, and the state museums in Berlin. Well, they are more like, they come together more, something like what we have is still somewhat exotic. But we're meeting now, having a workshop where we discuss it a bit. L: In this case, it's like a movement towards collaboration again.
- U: Exactly, it's kind of our mission, the district, so there's the Kunstmeile Hamburg, then there's something in Frankfurt too, with a river running through it, the Speer, and I went to see the Kunstareal München as well, more to look at the signage, see how they do it. But everyone works a bit differently, but yes, now we have this meeting, and it's quite interesting when everyone comes together, and also with Plateforme 10, but I think they are also in the early stages.
- L: It's nice when they can join in and benefit from it.
- U: Exactly, or there's also PalaCinema in Locarno, they were here two weeks ago, the ones who are now running it, but it's more of a cineplex that collaborates with the Locarno Film Festival. Everyone comes together, but it's always a bit tricky because everyone has slightly different... and we don't really rent out spaces, except for the Schwarze Café, which is special. It may be black, but it's designed by an artist as an event or exhibition space.
- L: And that's part of Luma?
- U: Exactly, and it's our event location.
- L: So it can also be used by others, not just in-house...?
- U: Yes, exactly, we host quite a few events there because they have the infrastructure in place, they have projectors, everything set up, microphones, headphones, speakers, and it's also a cool location. You have to get used to it being all black, though, but yes.
- L: It creates a certain atmosphere, it's quite a contrast to the rest of the building.
- U: Exactly, with the white cube, you have the black... yes. I think that was also his thing, Heimo Zobernig's thing, and also the library where you can theoretically sit and look at the books. But it doesn't work as a cafe, unfortunately, yes.

0.1 + 2.5 Hauser & Wirth

Hauser & Wirth was founded in 1992 in Zurich by Iwan Wirth, Manuela Wirth and Ursula Hauser, who were joined in 2000 by Partner and President Marc Payot and CEO Ewan Venters in 2020. A family business with a global outlook, Hauser & Wirth has expanded over the past 30 years to include outposts in Hong Kong, London, New York, Southampton, Los Angeles, Somerset, Menorca, Monaco, Zurich, Gstaad, and St. Moritz. The gallery represents over 90 artists and estates who have been instrumental in shaping its identity, and who are the inspiration for Hauser & Wirth's diverse range of activities that engage with art, education, conservation, and sustainability. In 1996, Hauser & Wirth Zürich was launched in the former Löwenbräu brewery building. Hauser & Wirth Zurich within Löwenbräukunst, is a former brewery and vibrant contemporary arts complex. The two spaces are home to art exhibitions, events and learning activities which connect with the local community in a unique architectural

Along with institutions including the Kunsthalle Zürich and the newly founded Migros Museum für Gegenwartskunst. Hauser & Wirth was a founding member and tenant of what is now an arts complex housing POOL. Westbau and LUMA Foundation, amongst other contemporary art galleries. This was the first of the gallery's architectural projects developed by Annabelle Selldorf.

0.2, 1.2, 2.2 and 3.2 Luma Westbau

The Luma Foundation's exhibition spaces Luma Westbau and schwarzescafé are part of the refurbished and expanded Löwenbräukunst art complex in Zurich. Luma Westbau opened in 2013, presenting international projects, exhibitions and events commissioned and produced by the Luma Foundation. In 2004, Maja Hoffmann created the Luma Foundation in Switzerland to support the activities of artists, independent pioneers, and organizations working in the visual and performing arts, photography, publishing, documentary film-making, and multimedia. The Foundation produces, supports, and enables challenging art projects committed to an expansive understanding of environmental issues, human rights, education, and culture.

Luma Westbau was initially established as a collaboration between the Migros Museum of Contemporary Art (MMK) and the LUMA Foundation. It operated as an exhibition space, and it played a significant role in Zurich's contemporary art scene. The institution has been known for its commitment to showcasing innovative and experimental works by emerging and established artists.

0.3 Migros Museum

The Migros Museum für Gegenwartskunst presents changing solo and group exhibitions as well as works from its own collection on two floors. The internationally renowned museum sees itself as a dynamic place for contemporary art, and the extensive educational and supporting program also contributes to this.

Since its foundation in 1996, the Migros Museum für Gegenwartskunst has been engaged in an ongoing discussion on central questions of the present, stimulated by the positions and works of international contemporary artists. They offer a forum for active, lively exchange about art against the background of its social responsibility. In this tradition, they address as diverse and broad an audience as possible. Communication and outreach that are geared towards different target groups, understanding their needs and taking them seriously, have been integral components of their activities from the very beginning.

They closely and critically observe important social discourses and document and reflect artistic reactions in their exhibitions and a significant collection. They are not concerned with art as a self-contained system of reference in the sense of a canon, but as a participatory and transparent laboratory for the development and questioning of positions and opinions. This explicitly includes constant reflection on their own role as part of the contemporary art world. They are embedded in solidarity with the artistic environment of their location in Zurich and Switzerland, but at the same time they are part of global networks. Sustainability is a central basic element of our attitude. All this shapes not only their work in terms of content, but also their dealings with others.

A.1 Edition Patrick Frey

Edition Partick Frey is a publishing house and produces books in small print runs. From when they started 1986 until today they have published more than 350 books. They are collaborating closely with mainly Swiss artists. The purpose of Edition Patrick Frey is to provide particularly young artists an opportunity and a platform with a first publication. The publisher focuses mainly on photography, art and projects dealing with everyday and popular culture.

Patrick Frey, b. 1949 in Bern, is an actor, comedian, author and publisher.

A.2 Edition VFO

Edition VFO has been publishing print works with a focus on contemporary art since 1948. The Verein für Originalgraphik promotes traditional printing techniques and focuses above all on the innovative, playful handling of the various complex and usually elaborate printing processes. By regularly offering various workshops, the association encourages artists to take up this challenge.

The non-commercial price structure of the association, which is largely supported by its members, is primarily aimed at private collectors. An important concern is, on the one hand, a broad audience of people interested in art and, on the other hand, the promotion of contemporary art in public space.

For Edition VFO it is important to maintain the juxtaposition of works by young artists on the one hand and wellknown artists on the other. Most of them have a connection to Switzerland. It is a non-profit organization, with a board of directors and a jury as the selection committee, which selects around 40 works per year from well over a hundred submissions to be published by Edition VFO.

With the help of artists, printers and members, the association seeks in this sense to communicate and cultivate printmaking as an essential and attractive concept within contemporary art in Switzerland and beyond.

The organization is a honorary board and membership work (except management + part-time positions)

1.1 Art Escape Room

The Art Escape Room in the Löwenbräukunst area was founded by artsnext as part of the amuze project and is now run by AdventureRooms Zurich. Supported by the Migros Pioneer Fund, the Art Escape Room creates a playful approach to art and gets young people excited about museums.

It gives a playfull approach to the artworld, with an escape room centered around an art heist. The room is only open if you make a reservation.

1.2 Barbara Seiler + annex14

Annex 14 Gallery was located in the LöwenbräuKunst for the last 5 years but is now leaving after 31 exhibitions by the end of October 2023. The space will be taken over by the Museum Haus Konstruktiv.

The gallery is known for its focus on contemporary and experimental art, often featuring works by emerging and established artists. Their program focuses on artists pursuing a conceptual approach - essentially minimalistic or tending to a narrative minimalism with a historical, social or personal underpinning.

The gallery frequently hosted exhibitions and events that contributed to the diverse cultural landscape of Zurich.

B.1 AIA

Awareness In Art believes that art is an effective tool to address questions that humankind faces today. By creating narratives in their spaces that are multifaceted, artists offer a holistic view on relevant matters. Through their eyes, we experience the world beyond a purely one-dimensional perspective. AIA aims to produce awareness. In psychology awareness is the state of being conscious or the quality of being perceptually knowledgeable. It is also the ability to perceive, feel, know, or be cognizant of events. We understand art as a vehicle that bridges perception, feelings, knowledge, and cognition to follow the ambitious target to develop strategies for our all future.

AlA creates a space for regenerative communities to grow and to co-create at the intersection of art, science, and technology. AlA dedicates itself to five topics and reveals their interconnectivity: social justice, ecology, challenges of digitalization, social responsibility and equality.

B.2 Galerie Francesca Pia

Galerie Francesca Pia was founded 1990 in Bern and, until today, is known for the discovery and fostering of important contemporary Swiss and international artists from their first exhibitions forward. After 16 years in Bern, the gallery moved to a larger space in Zurich in 2007. In 2012, the gallery was extended and relocated to a generous space in the historic Löwenbräu building, where it continues to engage in an ambitious program, representing over thirty artists of different generations.

Galerie Francesca Pia has a strong reputation for representing and exhibiting both emerging and established contemporary artists. The gallery is an important part of the contemporary art scene in Zurich.

B.3 Galerie Gregor Staiger

Galerie Gregor Staiger was founded in 2010 with a focus on emerging Swiss and international contemporary art in various media. Since its inception, the gallery has gained recognition for its dynamic and diverse program of exhibitions and projects. The gallery presents five to seven exhibitions per year, including solo presentations by represented artists, curated group exhibitions, experimental projects with young emerging artists, and performances. The gallery focuses on contemporary art across a wide range of mediums, including painting, sculpture, photography, video, and installation. It has a reputation for exhibiting innovative and thought-provoking works. The gallery's exhibitions provide a platform for artists to engage with the public and for viewers to engage with contemporary art.

2.1 Migros Pionierfonds

The Migros Pionierfonds is part of a broader initiative known as "Migros Kulturprozent," which is an extensive cultural and arts program established by Migros, one of the largest retail companies in Switzerland. The program is designed to support and promote various cultural and arts projects throughout Switzerland.

The specific "Pionierfonds" in the Löwenbräu Areal is a fund dedicated to supporting pioneering and innovative cultural and artistic projects in Zurich, particularly in the Löwenbräu Areal area.

They support pioneering projects financially for three to five years. The Migros Pioneer Fund has an annual budget of around CHF 15 million and is supported by Migros Group companies such as Denner, Migros Bank, Migrol and migrolino.

2.3 + 3.1 Kunsthalle

The Kunsthalle Zürich was founded in 1985 and today it is located in the Löwenbräukunst complex. The Kunsthalle organises six to ten exhibitions a year, it is non-commercial and has no collection. The Verein Kunsthalle Zürich (Kunsthalle Zürich Association) is its operating body; it is funded by members, patrons, sponsors and subventions. Kunsthalle Zürich is significantly supported by Stadt Zürich Kultur (City of Zürich Culture) and Kanton Zürich Fachstelle Kultur (Canton of Zürich Culture Department).

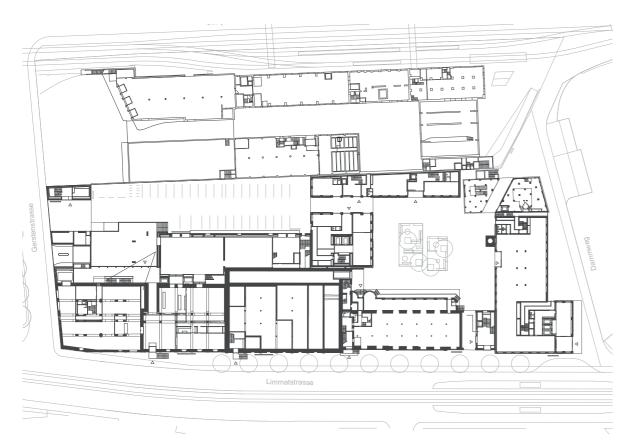

Kunsthalle Zürich exhibits internationally relevant contemporary art and ideas that relate to it. Each exhibition is an experiment. Thus the Kunsthalle continually reassesses art, its public and itself.

All art emerges from a specific context. Exhibiting art entails generating a new site- and time-specific perspective. This is how Kunsthalle Zürich enters into dialogue with its public and the public with the Kunsthalle. Through this, art can reveal its full potential and Kunsthalle Zürich becomes a local meeting place with international significance.

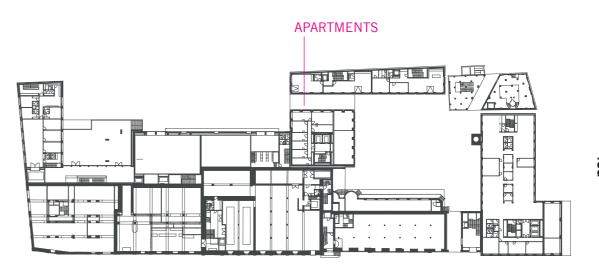

A transparent, open and inclusive approach is fundamental to Kunsthalle Zürich.

The Löwenbräu Black Tower is a distinctive architectural landmark situated within the Löwenbräu Areal in Zurich. This striking tower was designed by Swiss architects Gigon/Guyer and built in the early 2000s as part of a broader transformation of the Löwenbräu Areal into a vibrant cultural and arts complex. The tower's construction was completed in 2016.

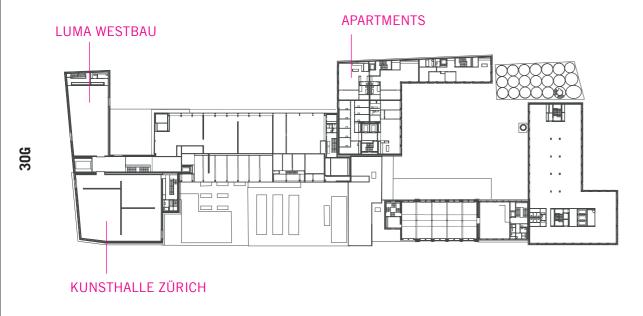

The Löwenbräu Black Tower is a mixed-use building that serves both commercial and residential purposes. It is an embodiment of modern urban architecture and design, with its sleek black facade and unique, angular structure. The tower stands as a testament to the revitalization of the former Löwenbräu brewery site, which has been transformed into a hub for contemporary art and culture, housing galleries, creative spaces, and cultural institutions. 58 luxury apartments were built within the Löwenbräu Black Tower. The tower, with its striking appearance and integral role in the Löwenbräu Areal, is a notable example of how historic industrial areas can be repurposed to create dynamic, mixed-use spaces in a city's urban fabric.

Surrounding Galleries

Kreis 5 is a district in Zurich that encompasses the Löwenbräukunst area. This district is notable for its vibrant arts and cultural scene. It houses several art galleries, cultural institutions, and creative spaces, making it a focal point for contemporary art in Zurich.

The Löwenbräukunst area, is particularly significant in this context. It is home to various renowned cultural and artistic institutions, including Kunsthalle Zurich and Migros Museum of Contemporary Art. These venues regularly host exhibitions, events, and programs showcasing contemporary and modern art.

Kreis 5 has become an artistic hub, with galleries, studios, and creative businesses contributing to the district's dynamic atmosphere. It is a destination for art enthusiasts and cultural explorers, offering a diverse range of artistic experiences and exhibitions.

The district's connection to Löwenbräukunst underscores its status as a cultural epicenter in Zurich, providing a unique and comprehensive experience of contemporary art and culture within the city.

The transformation of the Löwenbräu Areal can be associated with gentrification, as it led to an influx of art-related businesses and higher-income residents. This process has resulted in increased property values and the displacement of some long-time residents and businesses. The neighborhood's character shifted from an industrial working-class area to a more upscale and arts-oriented one.

The renovation brought more people into the neighborhood, both as residents and visitors, creating a more diverse and dynamic community. It has fostered a cultural and artistic ecosystem that benefits local artists, galleries, and cultural institutions.

6 Galerie Peter Kilchmann

In 1992, Peter Kilchmann opened his first gallery in a disused factory in Zurich's Western district. This was a pioneering move in a gritty part of the city, led by a small collective of visionary gallerists who loosely collaborated. From 1996 to 2010, the gallery expanded internationally, representing artists from the US, Europe, and Latin America. It gained a reputation for showcasing artists challenging the established narrative and presenting critical, non-Western perspectives.

In 2011, the gallery moved to Zahnradstrasse 21 in Zurich West, further increasing its size and capacity. In 2021, a second branch opened in the city center near Kunsthaus Zürich. In October 2022, the gallery expanded to the Marais district in Paris, marking its latest chapter of growth.

Throughout these milestones, Peter Kilchmann and his team have shown genuine curiosity and enthusiasm in supporting a diverse range of artists. The common thread is a conceptual approach to creative processes and compelling socio-political statements. Galerie Peter Kilchmann continues to provide a platform for open dialogues challenging traditional perspectives.

6 Galerie Eva Presenhuber

Galerie Eva Presenhuber is a leading contemporary art gallery located in a typical industrial building dating from the 1900s in Zurich and also in Vienna. The launch of the gallery in 2004 proved to be an immediate success. Here impressive exhibits can be viewed in enormous open spaces. Eva Presenhuber is committed to representing and nurturing an international and intergenerational roster of artists that reflects both historical and current discourses within contemporary art. The Vienna branch functions as an important extension of the Zurich galleries. In 2019, Eva Presenhuber celebrated her 30th anniversary as a gallerist.

Nowadays, Eva Presenhuber is considered one of the most influential gallery owners of her generation. Her portfolio is exquisite – ranging from Douglas Aitken and Emmanuelle Antille, to Urs Fischer, Douglas Gordon and Richard Prince, through to Oscar Tuazon and Franz West. A second branch can be found at Waldmannstrasse 6 in Zurich.

Preface

Who shapes LÖWENBRÄUKUNST?

A former brewery turned cultural hub, the complex has undergone major changes since its inception as an art center in the 1980's. While certain galleries, such as Hauser&Wirth, have been present from the start, the area has nonetheless seen waves of institutionalization, generated by private galleries and cityfunded art spaces alike. Still, the trajectory of the area is unclear. Galleries come and go, owners, directors, partnerships seemingly change every year, making it hard to predict the path of a building complex comprised of almost 20 institutions. In 2025, the Haus Konstruktiv, another major player in the art world of Zurich, will move into the Löwenbräukunst area.

The changes of the Löwenbräukunst can be seen analogically to the sphere it is situated in, Zurich West. As galleries, upscale boutiques and luxury apartments replace the remnants of the area's industrial past, questions about the preservation of community identity and social inclusivity come to the forefront. The Löwenbräu area is a sort of nexus, where the cultural and economic transformations of the neighborhood find an expression. The two towers that joined the complex in 2014 and the red brick facade, remodeled through gray concrete extensions, produce a parody-like patchwork of a building that mirrors the shifts of the area around it.

How do you quantify power?

A place where creativity converges with institutional influence, it also encapsulates intricate power structures, a landscape where galleries emerge not only as curators of aesthetic experiences, but further as important players in the international art market.

The question is how to make visible the complex networks that constitute these processes. In the following research, we will look at different metrics that could help understand the power relations forming the Löwenbräu area and the art market beyond Zurich West.

One avenue for investigation is the frequency and scale of exhibitions, a metric that unveils not only the institution's commitment to artistic expression but also its ability to attract and engage audiences. Similarly, it gives us a vague idea of the financial resources that an institution might possess. Thus, it is a first indicator of the power structures that run through the galleries. Another access to these topics is the composition of the board. Examining the profiles of leadership positions and the decision-making processes can illuminate the power dynamics at play. The degree of transparency and the access to information of the board serves as important insight into how an art space is run.

Social media presence, media coverage, and audience engagement are contemporary indicators of an institution's influence. Analyzing the institution's digital footprint provides valuable data points in understanding how power is disseminated. The internet presence of the featured artists gives us an idea of the preferences a certain gallery might have in regards to the prestige of their names.

As an institution that claims to be nestled in the local art scene of Zurich, the heritage of the featured artists can tell us whether or not the Löwenbräukunst is interested in fostering a local art scene, or if their focus is more on creating an international roster. For the analysis, we look at the artist's nationality and their current place of residence.

In the art world, the duration of a career often equates to an artist's esteem, through the amount of work they have exhibited and the network they have created. This means that evaluating the age of the featured artists can tell us more about the catalog of the institutions and about their strides in terms of diversity throughout all age groups.

The last type of data points are collected through the analysis of education. In high-profile art, it is often claimed that it is a world exclusive to an economic and academic elite. The image of the independent, struggling artist is not present in most institutions, as they prefer to exhibit and support creators from prestigious universities that are not open to the majority of the population. For statistic simplifications, all educational degrees were converted to the common terms of the Bologna reform.

What does the future hold for the LÖWENBRÄUKUNST?

The research presents the Löwenbräukunst area as a complex structure nestled in multiple networks that are morphing at a high pace. Thus, it is difficult to make definitive statements around the inherent power structures. Nonetheless, the aim is to get a basic understanding of how the area functions as a node in the art world and art market of Zurich West and further, internationally. We are interested in how the trajectory will evolve under the persisting pressure of gentrification and institutionalization. Can the Löwenbräu area once again shapeshift into a focal point of Zürich's art scene?
